

Social Work, Reflective Practice: Facilitating Civic Reflection

Instructor:

Adam Davis

Senior Research Associate,
Project on Civic Reflection;
Executive Director, Camp
of Dreams

Date:

Friday, October 31, 2008

Time:

9:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Location:

Hyde Park – SSA

Tuition: $140

CECs: 6

Registration deadline:

Wednesday, October 22,
2008

Social service administrators who are responsible for creating their organization's vision and scope of services, and social service providers who implement that mission through their work with clients, can greatly benefit from the practice of civic reflection. This workshop will train participants to facilitate civic reflection discussions. In addition to teaching attendees how to plan a civic reflection conversation, lead the conversation, and select appropriate readings, participants will engage in hands-on facilitation practice in small groups. Readings from The Civically Engaged Reader and other materials will provide participants with the necessary resources to incorporate the process of civic reflection within their own organization.

Please Note: This workshop builds directly on the material presented in the introductory workshop, "Social Work, Reflective Practice: An Introduction to Civic Reflection," offered on October 17 and is open only to those who have previously completed that workshop.*

One-time registration discount for both workshops: $190, 9 CECs by Wednesday October 8, 2008